
Athos '12

TABLES

Paolo Piva

Description

Athos '12 has two lengths, both in the fixed and extendable version, that can seat up to twelve people by exploiting a concealed mechanism. The V-shaped metal frame supports a thick top that is softened by rounded edges created with a complex milling procedure that maintains a uniform grain on the entire surface. In addition to this recent solution, a version of Athos is also available with the original features that were essential to its creation and which has made it a bestseller among tables: structural frames that highlight the ends of the tabletops, joined by a crosspiece at floor level. However, both models are equipped with a system for lengthening the tabletop.
